· A ROYAL MARRIAGE.

PRINCESS MARIE OF EDINBURGH WEDS PRINCE FERDINAND OF RUMANIA.

A BRILLIANT COMPANY WITNESSES THE CERE-MONY AT SIGMARINGEN - ROYAL PERSONAGES PRESENT.

emaringen, Jan. 10.-Amid toyal pemp and splen ser, and a rrounded by European savereigns or their representatives, Princess Marie of Edinburgh was married this afternoon to Prince Ferdinand, Crown Prince of gumania. Among those who witnessed the civil ceremony, which was performed at 2 o'clock by Dr. Wedel, Emperor William's household minister, were the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, the parents of the bride; King Charles of Ramania, uncle of the bridegroom; Prince Leopold of Hobenzollern Sigmar. ingen, father of the bridegroom; the members of the manian Ministry, the Presidents of both branches of the Rumanian Furliament, and the more immediate members of the families of the bridegroom. The schloss, the residence of Prince Ferdidand's father, was entirely too small to accommodate the large number of guests who attended the wedding, and to vent any discomfort an immense temporary house of ion and glass, on the model, though on a much smaller scale, of the Crystal Palace, in London, was sected for the wedding celebration. Here Prince Ferdinand and Princess Marie gave a reception to all the guests and the various deputations that have welled to Sigmaringen to offer their congratulations. It was snowing, but this only set off the beauty and purry displayed in the annex to the Schloss, which ras a veritable garden of flowers and palms.

the wedding ceremonies Queen Victoria, the grandmother of the bride, was represented by the pake of Connaught. There were present also as antish representatives Sir Edward Malet, the British Ambassador to Germany; Major-General Sir John Cowell, Master of Queen Victoria's household, and Mr. Millian's, the Queen's diplomatic agent at Colurg. The Duke of Genoa was present as the representative of King Humbert of Italy, while the Grand Duke Alexis and the Grand Duke Vladimir represented the Czar. intended that the Prince of Wales should represent Queen Victoria, but us the wedding took place so near the anniversary of the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, the Prince's eldest son, the Duke of Connaught was selected in his stead. Then followed the Imke of Connaught, with the Princess of Hohenzollern; the Grand Duke Alexis, with the Duchess of Connaught; Prince and Princess Leopold of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen, the parents of the bridegroom; King Charles of Rumania, Prince Ferdinand, and the brothers and sisters of the bridal pair. The bride, leading upon the arm of her father, the Duke of Edinburgh, entered last. The parish priest read the service, and Monsignor Placidus, abbot of the Benedictine monastery of Benron, delivered the nuptial address. Prince Ferdinand were the uniform of the Prussian Foot-Guards. The Protestant service was performed in the private chapel of the Schless after the return of the party

The gown worn by the bride was made in Empire style, the skirt being bordered with embroidery of pearl and crystal, slightly intermingled with silver, in a design of festoons that is chatacteristic of the period of the Empire.

In accordance with the German custom, there were no bridesmaids. Princess Marie was attended by her sisters Princess Victoria and Princess Alexandra. The former were a pile sky blue broshe silk, the design showing small peacock feathers in white, surrounded by curving lines of forget-me-nots. Princess Alex-andra's dress was of similar material and design, but in pale resepink instead of blue. The little Princes-Leatrice of Etinburgh, who is not yet nine years old wore corded slik in a beautiful slinde of cream color suggestive of old ivery, with its tint of pale vellow in Princess Marie is a member of the Church of Enghand, while Prince Ferdinand is a Cutholic. Conse quently it was necessary to obtain a Papal dispenso Con for the marriage. It is said, however, that both the Prince and his bride have a leaning toward the Cethodox Greek Church, and that it would not be surprising if they seem jerned that church. The bridging lar will spend that first forthight at one of the critical of the bridgeroom's father, the Prince of Hobernellern, and will then go to Ramania. Great pregamilous are being made there for their recention. In their arrival at Rucharest divine service will be head in the Metropolitan Church, wither, accompanied by the King, their Royal Highnesses will proceed direct from the station. They will occupy at first apartments in the royal nalace in Bucharest, Laier on they will remove to the Chateau Cotrocent, in the adjahorhood of the capital, when is being prepared for their reception. A medal will be strick in commensuration of the webting, bearing on one side Cethodox Greek Church, and that it would not be surpared for their reception. A medal will be struck to commonaution of the wedding, bearing on one side the efficies of the Crown Prince and his bride, and on the other the date of their marriage. Copies of this medal will be presented to the principal wedding guests as souven'rs of the occasion.

London, Jan. 10 .- Mr. Gladstone arrived at Folke tone today on his return from the Continent. Mr. Giadstone appeared in excellent health. Crowds of people gathered to welcome his arrival, and cheered him over and over again.

M. WADDINGTON TO WARN ENGLAND.

Paris, Jan. 10.-The "Matin" to day states that M. Waddington, the French Ambassador to Great Britain, who is at present in France on leave of absence, will, when he returns to London, bear to the British Government instructions couched in firm and unmistakable language declaring that France will not tolerate foreign intervention in Morocco or the ac-quisition in that country of any privilege by another Power.

THIRTY MEN DROWNED IN A MINE.

Lendon, Jan. 10 .- A calamitous accident occurred to-day at Penzance, Cornwall. While a number of men were at work in the Wheal Owl Mine, at that place, water suddenly rushed in and drowned many of the miners. As soon as the rush of water was heard those who were nearest the main shaft rushed into the tage and were quickly drawn to the surface. Others at a distance were overtaken by the water, and their tries could be heard resounding through the galleries The number of men drowned has been ascertained to thirty. The water came from an adjacent min which had been closed for many years.

THE STRIKE IN THE SAAR DISTRICT BROKEN. Berlin, Jan. 10 .- Shortly after the regular hour for poing to work to-day a break occurred in the ranks of the strikers in the Saar district, and in less than an hour the rush of men to secure re-employment was im ise. It was known by the strikers that many of them would not be taken back, but they did not know who would be dropped. Consequently, the engernedisplayed to return to the work they had abandoned Of all the strikers in the distric 11,170 were re-employed, and at once went to work, Three thousand of the men were not allowed to go back to the pits, the reason given to them being that the slackness of trade did not warrant their re-employ-

MR HOWLAND MADE NO COMPLAINT TO THE CLUB The reports that S. S. Howland took active measures that Colonel Robert Neville should be suspended by Mr. Howland's friends. That club did reprimand Colonel Neville and suspend him for one week for his attack on Mr. Howland at the Horse show here This step, however, was not taken in consequence of any action of Mr. Howland, as is shown by the following note to him, written by J. P. Sanger, secre

New-Haven, Conn., Jan. 10.-Yale began its winter term this morning, after a three weeks' holiday vacpartment of Folitical Economy, who has been it Europe for a year and a half, owing to III-health, had an enthusiastic reception on his first appearance this morning before the senior class. A peculiar incident of the vacation just closed is the unusual number of tutors who have been married, the Bot including Mr the Greek department, and Mr. Whitmore, instructor in natural sciences. The unprecedented size of the schman class has made it necessary to parcel it to ten divisions, which are subdivided so that there e really three separate classes side by sale in the

" SOUL" DISCUSSED BY THEOSOPHISTS. "SOUL" DISCUSSED BY THEOSOPHERS.

At a meeting of the Theosophical Society held at its headquarters last night the subject of "Soul" was discussed.
The lecturer, John M. Pryse, after reviewing the unsatisfactory nature of the explanations given by both charch and official science, axid that theosophy alone furnished proof of the existence of a soul state. "The advanced theosophist." he said, "who can leave his body at will does not stand in need of theological speculations, and furthermore, being far away from his body, he knows the foliaty of the materialistic theory that the mind is the product of the brain. The materialist is unable to explain my psychical phenomenon; he only has recourse words as 'coincidence,' 'charlatan,' 'deluded,' theosophy offers solutions to the candid investigator."

WOLFE EXECUTORS WILL APPEAL

The executors under the will of Catherine Lorillard Wolfe have filed notice of appeal to the Court of Appeals from the decision of the General Term of the Supreme Court, which held that they were personally hable for Court, which held that they were personally hable for the collateral inheritance tax on certain bequests which they paid out under the will. Catherine Lorillard Wolfe, who died in 1887, left to Grace Church $200,000, and to the Metropolitan Museum of Art $350,000. Surporate Rollins decided in October, 1887, that these bequests were not subject to tax, and the trustees paid over the amounts in full. In 1890 the District Attorney began action to not subject to tax, and the trively page pages action to full. In 1800 the District Attorney began action to compel the institutions to pay the tax. The case was tried before Surrogate Ransom, who decided that the tax must be paid. This decirion was confirmed by the General Term of the Supreme Court last December, which held that the tax most be paid and that the executors were personally liable.

Judge Van Brunt wrote the opinion, and took occasion to criticise severely the collateral inheritance laws, saying that they were bad, and seemed to be growing worse.

MERCURY DOWN AT ZERO.

COLDEST DAY OF THE SEASON HERE.

STEADY FALL OF TEMPERATURE ALL DAY. A cold wave came over the city and the surround ing country yesterday and made the day the coldes of the winter. The mercury began to fall early in the day and continued on its downward career far Into the night. The cold was felt with especial keep ness because it had been preceded by comparatively mild weather. It was bitterly cold toward night, so cold that it could not snow. About 9 o'clock a snow storm began, but gave it up. The snow that at tempted to fall became changed into minute particles of ice, which whirled through the air and found no resting place. Then the attempt was given up, and there were only the cold and the night and the grinding of the great masses of ice floating in the rivers and bays. The ice became packed in ferry slips and Lay in great fields out on the bay. The ferryboat and tugs made their way through it with great difficulty and no little danger. There were those who predicted that the East River would be frozen over before morning. The thermometer at Perry's pharmacy registered 24 degrees at 6 o'clock in the morning. Three hours later the moreory had fallen to 19 degrees, and at noon it was down to 17 degrees and at 3:30 o'clock to 11 degrees. It was now getting cold and no mistake. People who had been predicting that the weather would moderate abandoned prophesying. At 6 o'clock in the evening the thermometer registered only 8 degrees above zero and gave every indication of regis tering zero before it got through. At 9 o'clock the mercury was down to 5 degrees, and it fell to 4 1-2 by 950 Sclock. At midnight it had gone down to :

opened in the First Chamber of the Court of Cassation, M. Perivier presiding. The space allotted to the audience was thronged with distinguished people, including many well known in French finance, and a number of prominent persons from abroad were also Procureur-General Tanon conducted the prosecution.

The charges were read, setting forth that M. Ferdinand Marie de Lesseps, Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor; M. Charles Aime Marie de Lesseps, late nember of the Societe du Canal Interoceanique de Panama; M. Marius Etienne Fontane, M. Henri Louis Felix Cottu and M. Alexandre Gudave Eiffel were accused of having conjointly and during a less period than three years before the last act of prosecution in Paris, "by employing fraudulent manoeuvres to induce a belief in the existence of a chimerical event and an imaginary credit, dissipated sums derived from issues of loans which had been obtained for a specifled use and employment, and of having embezzled the whole or part of the fortune of others." Then followed the mention of the clauses of the Code refeering to the case.

It is owing to the fact that M. Ferdinand de Lesseps is a high dignitary of the Legion of Honor that this, which is really a police case, is being tried before the Court of Appeal. The last occasion on which this court was called upon to deal with a "correctional" case was when Monsignor Gouthe-Soulard, the Arch-bishop of Aix, was brought to trial for his insulting letter to the Minister of Public Worship.

Advocate-General Ran is assisting M. Tanon in the prosecution. Maitres Barboux, Waldeck-Rousseau and Du Euit were among the counsel for the accused, Maltre Barboux acting for both Ferdinand and Charles de Lesseps. The name of Count Ferdinand de Lesseps was called amid profound silence. After a short pause a physi-cian's certificate that Count de Lesseps was physically unable to be present was submitted to the court. The Procureur-General asked, nevertheless, that judgment by default be given and the court granted this motion. Charles de Lesseps was the first of the defendant di rectors examined. He was pale, but self-possessed, and anwered all questions with slow, painstaking precision. He made a long statement first as to the organization of the Panama Canal Company. His father, he acknowledged, had sold his founders' shares in the canal, but not for for the purpose of withdrawing his money from the enterprise. In every case Count de Lesseps had turned such shares into money merely that he might subscribe for a new issue. On the whole, Count de Lesseps had invested much more money in the Panama enterprise than he had withdrawn. Charles de Lesseps added that his own founders' shares had been bought by his father for 200,000 franes, which had been used by his father in subjectibing for a subsequent issue.

He said that it was against his advice that his father had undertaken the construction of the Ianama Camai. The Iresident repeatched him with having misled the public by announcing that Hersent and Couvenax had undertaken to construct the canai for 512,000,000 franes.

To this Charles de Lesseps replied that the arrangment with Hersent and Couvenax was not exactly a contract of that kind. It was rather sought to arrange a price by the metre than to fix the total of cubic metres to be excavated.

The prisoner was then questioned closely as to the relations of the American Panama Committee to the company. He said that 12,000,000 franes had been placed at the disposal of the American committeemen, and had been used by them for the best interests of the company. When asked if this sum was not rather large for the purpose for which it was applied, Charles de Lesseps replied:

Their assistance was valuable and would have warthe whole, Count de Lesseps had invested much more placed at the disposal of the American committeemen, and had been used by them for the best interests of the company. When asked if this sum was not rather large for the purpose for which it was applied. Charles de Lesseps repiled:

"Their assistance was valuable and would have warranted the expenditure of a still larger amount."

The presenting counsel asked several questions intended to draw out admissions that the feasibility of the canal plan was doubted by the directors before the last loons were applied for. Charles de Lesseps repiled that M. Roussean, a competent engineer who examined the works on the istimus in 18-6, expressed the conviction after his return to France that the canal could be completed, provided that certain modifications of the original plan were made.

"Ent M. Rover and M. Jacquet, both competent engineers, declared that a canal with lock would cost from L200,000,000 to 1,500,000,000 francs," said the pre-siding judge. "Was not the public deceived by the withholding of this estimate."

"Our consulting Committee of Works," replied M. de Lesseps, "gave an estimate of (00,000,00) francs for the completion of the work, and these were consequently the oaly figures that we could publish."

After M. de Desseps had explained at some length the reasons of the directors for intrusting the work to certain contractors, the count was adjourned.

The reports of the Parliamentary Fanama Committees of 18-86 and 18-88 have been presented before the Commission of Inquiry. They show that President Carnot refused by support the Lotter bill, and that M. sarrien also disclaimed all responsibility in the master. M. de Vreveinet admitted that the money asked for would not finish the canal, and when represended by a fellow-committeeman with being frighted of the produced the original term, explained that the Government granted morely permission, without assuming any ganzantee. M. Eathaut, who introduced the bill in the Chamber, explained the original term, explained the director soul assuming any ganzantee. opinion it would have been wise for all connected with the souther to have prevented the stiffe of forgines at the earset by a dignitied effect. Mr. Hoppin spoke approximately of the ability shown by Dr. Eriges at his trial.

When the to-martal Assembly Committee of Conference met with the directors a veer ago, it is said that Mr. Hoppin informed the compilitee that the legal opinions given by them as individuals, and were binding only upon those who presented them.
